

ENTOG Contest

Thank you for your interest in ENTOG's social media contest for IPVC 2023. The contest consists of collaboration with ENTOG members who will share their thoughts about the upcoming IPVC 2023 with their community to encourage their peers to register to this conference.

This social media contest will end on February 9.

By taking part in this joint ENTOG-IPVS social media contest, ENTOG members will try to win a free registration to the 35th International Papillomavirus Conference (IPVC 2023). The winners, with the best posts, will be informed by the end of the year.

The IPVS understands the influence our organization has on the global stage advocating on raising awareness around HPV and disseminating research results, shaping the discourse and direction through interaction with social media.

Therefore, please follow the below guidelines when posting, sharing or tweeting content.
